

Steph Jones is a Wisconsin native with a lifelong passion for art and nature. Formally trained at the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point, Steph has exhibited at the Stevens Point Sculpture Park, Delta Dental, and has painted murals in the Wausau River District. Her media include earth-based materials, recycled objects, mirror, ceramic, concrete and textiles. Recently, she has launched a wearable art clothing line which features her abstract paintings. Steph is always striving to advance and hone her methods. She hopes her work brings levity, and reminds viewers of the virtues of goodness and being kind. Prevalent themes throughout her work are those of magic, nature, architecture, and fairy tales. Public art is her passion, her personal crusade to make art available to all, to provide interestingness to uninteresting places.
