Dear [Editor's Name],

The world is continuously changing, presenting our global community with evolving ecological and societal challenges; and I am determined to be part of the movement that meets those challenges with innovative and inspiring solutions. We cannot idly wait for our leaders to make change; we must become the leaders. The future of sustainability is dependent on our ability to band together, to learn from one another, and to empower each other to take real action.

That's why at [insert time, and date of workshop] I am presenting a workshop on [insert what your workshop topic is about] at The 31st Annual Energy Fair in Custer, WI. As a [insert a brief description about your background, and why your topic is important for Energy Fair attendees to learn about]

Increasingly, we're witnessing an important shift toward securing a sustainable future in the social, economic, and legislative arenas, which proves that the momentum to achieve essential changes is there – as a society, we just need to harness it. Together, we can, and are, building a sustainable tomorrow for all.

The Energy Fair is hosted by the Midwest Renewable Energy Association (MREA), which is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational organization. Founded in 1990, the MREA promotes renewable energy, energy efficiency, and sustainable living through education and demonstration. To learn more, visit www.TheEnergyFair.org or call 715-592-6595.
